A Question of Character: Expanding the Park Slope Historic District

Lines drawn in 1973 left more than 75 percent of our neighborhood vulnerable to wholesale change and even destruction. Those lines were never meant to be permanent and the Civic Council is now working to finish the job.

Join a discussion with architectural historian Francis Morrone, author of the Park Slope Neighborhood and Architectural History Guide, and representatives from the Historic Districts Council and the New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission.

Thursday, March 5, 7pm

Old First Church, 7th Avenue & Carroll Street

Free and open to the public
